Taking Parenteral Nutrition to the Next Level:

An Evolution of Clinical Practice
at Hackensack Meridian Health
JFK Medical Center

Friday, February 8, 2019

Hackensack Meridian Health
JFK Medical Center Conference Center
70 James Street, Edison, NJ 08820

Overview

To review the process by which the Hackensack Meridian Health JFK Medical Center clinical team went from monitoring Macronutrients in MD initiated PN orders to monitoring judicious use of PN, recommending macro and micronutrient contents on PN formulations, and becoming the nutrition experts in managing PN cases.

Objectives: At the conclusion of this presentation, the participant will be able to:

1. Identify process by which RD's at Hackensack Meridian Health JFK Medical Center became the clinical experts and results of this transition.
2. Identify appropriate and inappropriate PN candidates.
3. Write a recommendation for a chemically stable PN with a low-risk of calcium precipitation.
4. Write a recommendation for a PN containing appropriate macro and micronutrients with consideration to electrolyte and acid base balance.
5. Identify ways of dealing with difficult clinical pictures (i.e., hyperglycemia, fluid restriction, sepsis, hypernatremia).
6. Identify key clinical data needed to make an appropriate recommendation.
7. Identify appropriate venous line access.
8. Identify interdisciplinary team members who are knowledgeable resources for ensuring appropriate recommendations.
